GWA Dr. Abeer Khalil (dubbed the “IIMSAM Angelina Jolie”) is seen above with supplies and the IIMSAM supply truck, delivering humanitarian food supplies and other items for daily survival to various communities in need in Cairo, Egypt.

IIMSAM's Goodwill Ambassador H.E. Dr. Khalil is a prolific humanitarian who works with cancer victims, autistic children, orphans, and refugee children, and is the medical director of her own medical center serving the diplomatic community and others in Jeddah, Saudi Arabia. She is also a Goodwill Ambassador for various initiatives with the Arab Media Unity Council.

As an IIMSAM Goodwill Ambassador, she arrived in the Egyptian capital, Cairo, as part of the IIMSAM “Ramadan Al Khair” Goodwill Campaign in support of the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals 2015–2030. H.E. Dr. Khalil visited a number of severely impoverished communities/districts with no infrastructure, no sanitation, and a polluted environment full of waste throughout Cairo. Among the communities she visited were Ezbet Al Hagana and Al Shurabiah, where she listened to residents about the difficulties they faced, in order to help provide facilities, and offered financial support to people suffering from chronic diseases.

She also visited Saied Jalal Hospital, touring various departments and being briefed on the large number of patients being treated. She donated funds and gifts to the children in the hospital.

“This is the time to give a hand to these unfortunate people – not only in Ramadan, but throughout the year. This is necessary to help them prosper, to become healthy, and to become members of their respective communities for a better future.” – H.E. Dr. Abeer Khalil
